Skip the hassle of cooking and book a mess-free gourmet meal at one of these 12 hotels.

Salish Lodge: Seattle More than 1.5 million people visit the Seattle area's iconic Snoqualmie Falls every year; a relatively select few are fortunate enough to fall asleep listening to the falls' inspired thundering from cozy rooms at the Salish Lodge & Spa made world-famous by the 1990s hit TV show Twin Peaks (returning to the air in 2017). Book a room, then a table at the Dining Room for a four-course feast for $100: It's best kicked off with a steaming bowl of Dungeness-crab bisque, a Northwest favorite.
