One hundred sixty-five miles south of Vancouver and 144 miles east of the Pacific Coast lies the somnolent town of North Bend, otherwise known as Twin Peaks. While the suburb is known for its television presence, just 30 minutes from Seattle over the Lacey V. Murrow Memorial Bridge and down I-90 sits a perfect host of the northwest. From the fruit pies to iconic views, catch up on your favorite memories in anticipation of the 2017 season with our guide to the Twin Peaks.

With a peak that can be seen anywhere in town, Mount Si is another icon of the opening credits. During the warmer summer months, climb 3,500 feet up the four mile trail to the summit ridge. Many episodes begin with a shot of the cold falls, commonly known as Snoqualmie Falls, adjacent to the hotel. For the best view, park for free at the gift shop and two-acre park and walk the paved path to the observation deck. Similarly, take in the 270 foot waterfall from the base at the lower deck.

The Great Northern Hotel

Continue down Railroad Avenue to one of Twin Peaks' major sets, the Great Northern Hotel. Locals know it as the Salish Lodge and Spa. Make the most of the river-side view with lunch in the Attic. Yoga by the falls or a spa treatment will make for an afternoon of luxury.
