

Fall Into the Season With Cozy Indoor Activities and Stunning Outdoor Adventures

The Pacific Northwest dazzles in any season, but the region's colors truly "wow" in the vibrant autumn months. Since options for how to spend any Seattle day can seem endless, we're happy to help you narrow down the abundance of choices. Some prefer to spend these often-cooler months cozying up inside Seattle's hygge-filled spaces (from coffee shops and eateries to museum galleries and music-filled lounges like downtown's KEXP). On the other hand, others see this season as the perfect excuse to get outside on trails and waterways that show off the natural beauty of our region.

As autumn arrives, Washington's national parks erupt in beautiful colors, and outdoor adventures prepare to transition from summertime hikes to snow-centric activities (like skiing to snowshoeing). Downtown treasures like Discovery Park give urban dwellers the chance to experience the changing of the seasons within city limits. Brand-new observatory experiences (at the Space Needle and Columbia Tower) raise visitors to new heights this fall, while theaters like 5th Avenue excitedly welcome lauded productions that promise to inspire and entertain.

However you choose to celebrate the season, we guarantee that this splendid place—and its wonderful people—will leave you feeling grateful for the rich bounty of the season.

3 SALISH LODGE AND SPA
SAMMAMISH

A scenic 30-minute drive from Seattle brings you to the charmingly rustic-chic Salish Lodge & Spa, which offers Old-World ambience and modern elegance. Get out and enjoy nature near the lodge, whether hiking around the rushing cascades or trying activities like fly fishing and snoeshowing, depending on the season. Back at the cozy venue, dine on award-winning Northwest cuisine while enjoying romantic views of Snoqualmie Falls. The team here prides itself on attending to a honeybee apiary that produces 2,400 pounds of honey per year, as well as a thriving herb garden and 800-square-foot organic vegetable garden, that provides The Dining Room and The Attic with unique culinary opportunities. For the ultimate getaway experience, book a dreamy spa service to round out your visit.