

the Stranger

THINGS TO DO

APR 2, 2018

The Stranger's Guide to Seattle Restaurant Week 2018

The Best Deals, Stranger Critics' Favorites, James Beard Award Winners, and More Picks for April 2-19

by Stranger Things To Do Staff

James Beard-nominated chef Shota Nakajima's restaurant Adana is just one of the 181 restaurants participating in Seattle Restaurant Week. ADANA VIA FACEBOOK

Monday, April 2, is the first day of Seattle Restaurant Week. That means that for two glorious weeks (Sundays—Thursdays until April 19), respected establishments all over town will be offering three-course dinners for a mere $33. Some of them will also offer two-course lunches for $18. You can see the full list of participants (there are currently 181, though more may be added) here. To help you narrow down the options, we've picked out a few highlights for you to check out and rounded them up below, including some normally pricy options, rising stars, favorites of Stranger critics, and restaurants associated with James Beard Award-winning chefs. We've also noted which Restaurant Week participants are POC-owned and women-owned. Go forth and chow down, but be sure to make reservations, and please remember to tip your servers well.

GREAT DEALS

Restaurant Week is a great chance to catch these normally high-end, well-established restaurants for a reasonable price.

AQUA by El Gaucho

Barking Frog

The Dining Room at Salish Lodge and Spa

El Gaucho

Il Bistro

RN74

Salty's

Scout